Centennial Report

1867 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

Report No. 2—

A few weeks ago I made a statement during a luncheon address that we at the Centennial Commission in Ottawa are so busy we don't have time for coffee breaks.

The next day I was passing an open door in our office building and was jolted by a scene which belied my remark of the day before. Two Commission staff members were in spirited conversation—over coffee! Only the fact that the time was 5:15 p.m. (after office hours) softened the shock to the sensibilities of a stern administrator.

I was invited into the session. The two young staffers were Marcel X, a French Canadian, and John Y, an English Canadian, who had come to Ottawa a couple of months earlier to work on Centennial projects.

"We have made some interesting rediscoveries about the Fathers of Confederation," remarked Marcel X. "For example, I did not recollect until I came to work here, that D'Arcy McGee was for a time a separatist. And neither John nor I remembered from history lessons at school that Sir Georges-Etienne Cartier had been exiled for being a rebel with Papineau."

A number of the Fathers of Confederation did in fact have bitter beefs which stemmed from regional interest and worries about provincial rights, all of which they eventually subordinated to the fleshpots of federation. In fact some of those men were abandoned by their constituents at home for being too "pro" confederation. Joseph Howe of Nova Scotia one of the most talented writers of the Confederation period, fumed against Confederation, yet he joined Sir John A's first government November 16, 1869—(How ironical that on our Centennial train we will show his printing press which he used to whip Confederation!)

I believe that involvement in the 1967 celebrations will give Canadians, through their rediscoveries of history, a better understanding of themselves and their place in their country and in the world.

We Canadians in 1967 should be in a mood to look at history calmly and objectively and I believe that when we do this we will be helping to create in ourselves a tolerant attitude which will enhance our approach to some of today's problems of nationhood.

The coffee break turned out to be something of value after all. I think that discussions of this sort, particularly among students, who, with their teachers and professors will be drawn to them during our Centennial Year, are good for Canada.

The Centennial Commission is actively engaged with Canada's universities on a Centennial program to stimulate the sort of discussion I heard at the coffee break. During the universities program a series of historical seminars will study select areas of Canadian history, with emphasis on topics which are controversial. In addition notable lecturers and artists will make visits to campuses and two touring Centennial plays, one English and one French, are to be produced with student actors from across the country. There will be other learned conferences and seminars all of which will encourage our young people to take advantage of lessons learned in the past to chart the future for Canada.

FORESTS and FISHING

"A Timely Spring Message"
Angling has become one of Canada's greatest outdoor recreations. This has been brought about not because people just want to eat fish. If this were so, fishermen could save a lot of time and money by visiting a local butcher where fish may be purchased for less than the price of a fishing trip.

People go fishing because it is healthful and relaxing. It gives them an opportunity to get away from the conflicts and worries of everyday life. Besides the fun of fishing, there is sunshine and fresh air, trees and wild flowers, rippling streams and beautiful lakes. All angling, in one way or another, is dependent upon our forests. There are lakes and some streams without trees but somewhere along the watershed the forests are storing and gradually releasing cold, clear water to the feeder creeks and streams. The quality of all streams is determined by the condition of the watershed.

Temperature is the most important factor in the environment for fish. For instance, brook trout will thrive in water with a temperature of 66 degrees F., and die when the temperature reaches 78 degrees F. Trees and the forest floor help regulate the flow and temperature of streams. When this cover is removed by fires or unwise forest management, it has a disastrous effect upon fish. Flash floods and soil erosion destroy spawning beds.

The aquatic plant and animal growth is destroyed. Muddy or heavily silted water excludes sunlight and prevents growth of all living things. When the temperature of water rises, the oxygen content on which the fish live, decreases and in some cases is destroyed entirely.

For these reasons, forests are essential for fish.

Anyone who has experienced the good fishing and observed the clear stream conditions in an undisturbed forest area, must conclude that green forests, clear water and good fishing go hand in hand.

Report From Parliament Hill

(Lawrence E. Kindt, M.P.)

No one expected that the recent Government Budget would produce any startling new policies in taxation or in financial policy. In general terms this expectation was fully realized. One step in the right direction is the gradual removal of the sales tax on production machinery, which will certainly increase Canada's competitive position in manufactured goods, both at home and abroad.

Some of the other terms in the Budget were new and interesting, but it is not expected that they will have much effect on the average citizen.

Unfortunately, no substantial measures were taken to deal with Canada's soaring cost of living, nor was there any reference to the economic problems of agriculture.

There is nothing in the Budget that would point in the direction of an early election. In other words it was not the typical election type of Budget.

Board of Directors FAMILY SERVICE BUREAU OF CROWS NEST PASS and PINCHER CREEK

Murray R. Hodgson was born at Hartney, Manitoba, and received his public and high school education at Underhill, Elgin and Hartney, Manitoba. He received his Doctor of Medicine degree from the University of Manitoba in 1942. For 13 years he practiced in Steinbach, Man., before coming to Pincher Creek in 1955, where he is in group practice.

He is married and has three children and is a member of the United Church of Canada.

He feels that an organization such as the Family Service Bureau is filling and will further fill the area of preventative counselling, which has long been vacant. It will enable families and individuals to procure good solid counselling by those qualified. It should be a source for children who may be somewhat backward and retarded in various ways to be directed to psychiatric or other social agencies of which there is a paucity in Southern Alberta.

C.N.P. Knights

Attend Installation

On Sunday, April 22 a most successful initiation of the Knights of Columbus was held in Lethbridge, when over 60 new members were welcomed into the ranks of the Order for southern Alberta Councils.

District Deputy Ken Heinrich of Milk River, and District Deputy John Binda of Coleman, were in charge of the arrangements, and the Major degree was exemplified by the Calgary team, directed by Bro. Ed Torscher of Bow Island.

The evening banquet in the Lethbridge Civic Centre was attended by more than 400 guests, including Knights and their wives from Cut Bank and Shelby, Mont.

Principal speaker for the occasion was Father J. Cahill of Calgary.

New Knights in St. Joseph the Worker Council in the Crows Nest Pass are Bros. Louis Vasek, Frank Balajewich and Walter Bantok, of Coleman; Wray Johnston, of Hillcrest; Joe Welsgerber, Bellevue, and Charles Amato, Steve Ulrich, Inio Sartorio, Wayne Hucik, Ronald D'Ercole and Ed Brunner, all of Blairmore.

Obscene Literature Subject of Meeting

"Perversion For Profit", a film depicting the effect of Girdle, Nudist and obscene paper back novels was the highlight of an open meeting held in the Isabelle Sellon School April 2.

Commentator for the film indicated that 16 of the last 19 great civilizations fell because of moral decay. The film showed the terrific increase in crime and the outbreak of social disease in Canada and the United States.

It was pointed out that the Canadian Criminal Code declares it a crime to publish and circulate obscene materials and the law must be enforced by the Provincial attorney-general.

Wholesale dealers have been quite co-operative in withdrawing filthy matter from the bookstands.

Methods suggested to aid the fight against obscene literature were:

Promote good reading.
To seek better enforcement of present legislation and if present legislation is inadequate to press for better laws.

Mrs. Nora Davis of the Citizens For Decent Literature Committee of Calgary, spoke briefly, stating that this group should be an interfaith group. She suggested that publishers and distributors of obscene literature should be answerable to the law—same as other criminals.

Frank Feimling, formerly of Blairmore and recently city solicitor for Calgary, now in private legal practice and a former member of the Alberta Commission on Adoptions, addressed the group.

He gave a resume of the laws of obscenity as laid down in the Canadian Criminal Code. He also mentioned the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court on the presentation of obscene materials and the fact that the courts are becoming aware and aroused to the dangers of smut and filth. Most news dealers, he said, do not know the contents of the publications they have on their stands and would clean their stands of the obscene literature if they were requested to do so.

Hugh O'Grady of TV Channel 2

Calgary and Marcel J. Savole, chairman of Knights of Columbus State Decent Literature Committee of Calgary, were present at the meeting that was arranged by the St. Joseph the Worker Council of Knights of Columbus in the Crow's Nest Pass.

PANEK—In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Stephen Panek, who passed away April 22nd, 1963.

Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.

A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by his loving wife Anne, daughter Mary, son-in-law Tommy and grandson Stephen.

WESTERN CANADIAN PIONEER MUSEUM

1911 Franklin

History of pioneer transportation captured in this unique collection

An enterprising father and son team, Ted and Stan Reynolds, have created one of the most unusual museums in our province. Here are authentic stage coaches and old time vehicles, such as the open buggies that provided prairie transportation in the days when "horse power" meant just that. Four hundred steam and internal combustion engines, stationary and traction models in broadly varying design, are prominent in the collection. You'll see pioneer cars dating way back to 1899 including the 1904 Cadillac and Olds 1 cylinder runabouts, 1908 Baker and 1911 Hupp Yeats electric cars, 1911 Franklin air cooled, 1916 V-twelve cylinder National, Cord front wheel drive and the Brooks steam car. There's even a Gypsy Moth biplane, a horse drawn hearse, and a 1912 aerial ladder fire truck. The Western Canadian Pioneer Museum in Wetaskiwin is more than a historical storehouse. It represents a tremendous outlay of interest, time and effort by two imaginative Albertans, in creating a permanent tribute to the pioneer history of our Alberta.

Next time you're travelling Highway No. 2, stop and visit the Western Canadian Pioneer Museum at Wetaskiwin. It's open every day from May 1 to October 1.
